Please understand the importance of being prepared to compete at the highest level. With the recruiting and rule changes its going to be important that you keep your grades high, your baseball IQ higher then the rest and you compete your butt off from now until you get to AZ. If you aint working out daily you probably shouldn't be going to this event. Just being honest to you and your parents. It's a commitment and its either you are committed or you not. No gray area. Get in the weightroom and train on the field. I am ready to get after it are you.
